The Art of Master Painter Omar d'León

My friend and mentor, Omar d'León, is having his work exhibited!

Museum of Ventura

County located at 89 S. California Street, Ventura, CA. USA
(805) 641-1876 ext 306

EXHIBITION DATES

December 11, 2009 through February 28, 2010

This winter, the Museum of Ventura County presents

The Magical Realism of the Americans: The Art of Master Painter Omar d'León

Paintings by this internationally recognized artist, one of the most renowned Nicaraguan painters of the last 50 years, are on exhibition. The exhibit includes several of d'León's recent works which have never been shown.

The artist is known for his light reflecting colors and surface textures, created by crosshatch scoring through pigment and wax sometimes more than 20 layers deep. The exhibition includes photographs of this process, as well as d'León's tools and sketchbooks. Studying at the Escuela Nacional de Bellas Artes in Nicaragua, he combined an Impressionistic use of light and color with the magical realism traditions of Central America, which earned him critical acclaim at an early age.

Today his pieces are in the collections of the Museum of Latin American Contemporary Art in Washington, D.C., the Ponce Museum of Art in Puerto Rico, the Chicago Art Institute, the Cuevas Museum in Mexico City, and the Museum of Latin American Art in Long Beach, California, among other collections. SUCCESS! – Thank you!!

On October 4, 2009, at the Art + Design Pasadena Open market, more than 100 emerging artists, faculty and alumni from Art Center College of Design and Pasadena City College came together to mingle with the public, discuss creative processes, and sell their works of art!

Thank you to all who came– it was a great event and I appreciated your support! You made it a wonderful day!

Merchandise that was exclusive to the event is now available online! (See details below)

Pictures from the event have been posted on the website: <http://www.anyartwork.com/showings.html>

As luck would have it, photographer, Andrea Bricco, in association with Pasadena Magazine took our photos at the event and will be posting them in their upcoming magazine!

What is a Giclee Print?

Since ANY Artwork has Giclee Prints available, many people ask "What is a Giclee Print?"

The Definition : Giclee (zhee-klay) - The French word "giclée" is a feminine noun that means a spray or a spurt of liquid. The word may have been derived from the French verb "gicler" meaning "to squirt".

The Term : The term "giclee print" connotes an elevation in printmaking technology. Images are generated from high resolution digital scans and printed with archival quality inks onto various substrates including canvas, fine art, and photo-base paper. The giclee printing process provides better color accuracy than other means of reproduction.

The Process : Giclee prints are created typically using professional 8-Color to 12-Color ink-jet printers. Among the manufacturers of these printers are vanguards such as Epson, MacDermid Colorspan, & Hewlett-Packard. These modern technology printers are capable of producing incredibly detailed prints for both the fine art and photographic markets. Giclee prints are sometimes mistakenly referred to as Iris prints, which are 4-Color ink-jet prints from a printer pioneered in the late 1970s by Iris Graphics.

The Quality : The quality of the giclee print rivals traditional silver-halide and gelatin printing processes and is commonly found in museums, art galleries, and photographic galleries.

The Market : Numerous examples of giclee prints can be found in New York City at the Metropolitan Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Chelsea Galleries. Recent auctions of giclee prints have fetched $10,800 for Annie Leibovitz, $9,600 for Chuck Close, and $22,800 for Wolfgang Tillmans (April 23/24 2004, Photographs, New York, Phillips de Pury & Company.)
